The fourteenth of February is a day sacred to St. Valentine. It was a very odd notion, alluded to by Shakespeare, that on this day birds, begin to couple; hence perhaps arose the custom of sending on this date letters containing confessions of love and affection.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to extend my thanks to all of my neighbors and friends who so faithfully helped me in the time of sickness and death of my dear husband.

The Aged Christian Mother.

To us it is a beautiful sight to see an aged Christian mother basking in the sunset of a life that has been nobly lived. We visit her at her home. There she sits—the old Christian mother—ripe for heaven. Her eyesight is almost gone; but the splendors of the Celestial City kindle up her vision. The gay light of heaven's morn has struck through the gray locks which are folded back over the wrinkled temples. She stoops very much now under the burden of care she used to carry for her children. She sits at home today, too old to find her way to the house of God; but while she sits there, all the past comes back to her and the children that forty years ago trooped around her arm chain with their little griefs and joys and sorrows—those children are all gone now. Some caught up into the better realm, where they shall never die, and others out in the broad world, attesting the excellency of a Christian mother's doctrine. Her last days are full of peace, and calmer and sweeter will her spirit become until the gates of life shall lift and let the worn out pilgrim into eternal spring-tide and youth where the limbs never ache and the eyes never grow dim, and the staff of the exhausted and decrepit pilgrim shall become the palm of the immortal athlete.

'TIS SAD BUT TRUE.

Saturday evening, a gentleman, who was well acquainted with the prices on printed matter, called on The Herald for some job work, stating that he had been informed by someone posing as an editor, that their office was the only printing office in town, and at the same time asking exorbitant prices on his work. Determined not to pay any such prices, he looked further and was advised to try The Herald, where he left his order, and saved one dollar on every 1000 impressions we printed for him, and at the same time got strictly first-class work. 'Tis very bad when a competitor has to resort to such in order to get a little business. We could very easily tell that some office was suffering a big loss of their business in their job department, on account of our fast increasing business, but at the same time we didn't think the old boy was taking it so serious. Now (WE) as you term yourselves, are not the only ones in Cape Girardeau that turn out printing, and the people have found it out, and are educated to the fact that Service, Quality and LEGITIMATE Prices, are three things to be considered, exactly what you get when you leave an order at The Herald office. So now take our advice and tie your little bull on the outside and come clean.

Frisco Fruit, Poultry and Dairy Train.

The Frisco Fruit, Poultry and Dairy Train will be at Cape Girardeau Wednesday, Feb. 5th. Prof. T. E. Quisenberry, director of the State Poultry Experiment Station, of Mountain Grove, will lecture on Successful Farm Poultry; Prof. F. W. Faurot, of the State Fruit Experiment Station, will lecture on the Care of Orchards, and Mr. A. J. McDowell, Dairy Agent, Frisco Lines, will lecture on How to Succeed in Dairying.

These men have had wide experience under farm conditions, and are experts in their line. They will show you what to do, and how to do it, to obtain best result.

Both town people and farmers are invited, as much will be said that will profit all.

The day lectures will be in their ear, and the night meeting will be either from the car or hall.

Ladies especially invited.

John W. Farrar Dead.

John W. Farrar, son of Jones A. Farrar and Biddie Farrar, was born March 6th 1853 in Perry County, Mo., and died Jan. 14th 1913, at his home in Fruitland, Cape Girardeau County, Missouri, aged 59 years 8 months and 8 days. When a young man he was married to Miss Laura Duggins with whom he lived happily until death.

About 16 years ago he was gloriously and graciously converted and he lived as he died with abiding faith in the saving grace of the Lord Jesus Christ. At the time of his death he and his wife were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Fruitland, Mo., but now our brother has passed from the church militant to the church triumphant. His departure is mourned by a wife, two sisters, two brothers and a host of friends.

The funeral services were held in the M. E. Church at Perryville, conducted by Rev. M. O. Morris, and interment was made in the Home Cemetery Thursday, Jan. 16th, 1913.

Whitewater Route 2.

Mr. Dockins of Crump recently moved to Whitewater.

There is considerable sickness in this vicinity now. Messrs. Jessie McCullough, August and Willa, two of Whitewater's merchants are very ill. Jesse Wilkinson of Crump is also sick.

The diphtheria scare has subsided and the schools are all going on. There was but one death from this disease near here, that was Oliver Crump's little girl.

Miss Vara Allmon has finished her term of school near Marble Hill and returned home. She expects to enroll at the Cape Normal in a short time.

Mrs. Hy. Pruente entertained the young folks of Counsel Ridge neighborhood with a pie-supper last Thursday evening.

Old booze again got in his work on one of our citizens to such a degree as to deserve honorable mention. The man in question, it seems, becomes a genuine devil when intoxicated, although agreeable enough and withal and honored citizen when sober. He imbibed freely of the beverage for which Allenville is so justly famous, came home and attacked his family with a knife, when his step-son struck him with a chair inflicting a wound from which he will lose one eye. We withhold the name out of respect to his family.

The recent sleet put all the telephone lines out of use. This in conjunction with the bad condition of the roads, and high waters, preventing rural mail carriers from going, has rendered the farmers unusually lonesome of late.

Now that the Legislature is in session, all interested in good roads should get busy. Let's flood our representatives and senators with letters urging them to do all in their power for the enactment of laws that will result in good roads. In no other way can they so effectively serve the people. The legislators should be made to know that their constituents want good highways and are willing to pay for them.

Respt.,
Scribbler.

The so-called Major bill to create a public service commission is in reality a bill to provide luscious plums for several of his personal friends. The sly fox!

There will be no inaugural ball at Washington. Such an old established and popular function is not in keeping with the taste and views of the college professor who is to begin his second course in statesmanship March 4. It may be just as well to have a formal handshaking at the White House instead of a naughty foot-shaking. But what an ordeal the new President has arranged for the ladies.

Secretary of Agriculture, Wilson says that the increase in the volume and value of agricultural products of the United States as the result of organized community work is almost beyond the comprehension of the average citizen. He cites as an example Scott County, Iowa, the first to employ experts, in which the price of land averages $250 per acre largely because of organized community effort. It is urged by him that the farmers of other counties should organize, employ a crop expert, and take advantage of the federal appropriation for the development of the land.
